SINGUIL
Catamarca province

The total surface of this property is 24,000 acres. This surface is divided into two fields: one portion of 14,370 acres of land and the other one of 10,025 acres of land. The main use of these two fields is livestock production, including cattle and deer.

THE PROPERTY

Both fields count with soils of high quality with great conditions for growing grasses and also, water availability. They are both fenced. There are 40 miles of roads across the property. Besides cattle and the approximately 400 deer that can be found in this land, the property presents a variety of wildlife. Both portions of land can hold up to 2000 animals.

THE LOCATION

This property is located in the Sierras de Ambato y Ancasti in the province of Catamarca, 70 miles away from San Fernando del Valle de Catamarca city. Rivers and water springs irrigate the region, which also counts with a variety of wildlife and abundance of trees of a great wood. Some of the most beautiful Argentinean landscapes can be found in here.
